Please keep all discussions/theories/reactions of the latest episodes here so that the subreddit is not flooded or spoiled. Thank. ^_^Each will be posted about 6-8 hours before its release and plugged in for two weeks. (If the discussion is not until midnight Saturday pacific time, please PM me or send a letter mod.) The first week is for the initial release that the First Member watches, while the second week is for a Free release for others. First Member, be sure not to bring spoilers from the next episode into the discussion of the previous episode. Blue is a machinima comic webseries created by Rooster Teeth Productions. Created from the Halo video game series, the series tells the story of two armies who initially fight each other in isolated canyons, in war parodies, science fiction, and first-person shooter scanning. After the first episode in 2004 was hugely popular, the show's creators decided to quit their jobs and work with Rooster Teeth full-time. [1] In the eighth season, Red vs. Blue then has a sequence of digital animations that do not have the same limitations as those generated with halo multiplayer mode. Red vs. Red. Blue is the longest online episodic series in history, and the second longest animated after Homestar Runner. [2] One portuguese with the title displayed through the Netflix streaming website. History In the 26th century, while the Master Chief led the fight against hostile aliens in a canyon isolated from the Blood Shack, two teams, red and blue, protected their flags while arguing with each other.
